Take your craft to the next level in this one-of-a-kind certification class where certified concrete finishers train alongside the design and specifier community. This is your chance to showcase your skills, demonstrate best practices, and help bridge the gap between what's designed and what's built. By working directly with engineers, architects, and specifiers, you'll help them understand the real-world challenges of placing, finishing, and curing concrete - leading to better jobsite coordination, clearer specs, and fewer headaches.
